The World's Almanac. Packed within the 832 pages of The World Almanac and Encyclopedia for 1912 is a vast compendium of useful knowledge, remarkably inclusive in its goope and at the same time generous as to detail. It is a printed information bureau which answers the thousands bureau which answers the thousands of questions raised every day in home, office, and even in school, bearing on political, historic, scientific, legal, commercial and other subjects. It is a tabloid reference library condensed in one volume, yet so generously yielding information that, it corresponds to a library comprising hundreds of volumes. What is the question in your mind? The index gives you the subject and in less than a minute the page is open before you and your answer is there. Of convenient size—it can be carried in the coat pocket—it is invaluable to the man who needs a reference library within hand's reach to broaden not only his knowledge of general affairs, but also his field of usefulness and general efficiency. It is not only a reminder, but an educator as well. It is a ready-made memory and an authora ready-made memory and an author-ity of the last word. It is compact, it is complete, it is comprehensive. It is a big-little book.

WOOD, PUTNAM & WOOD CO. IN NEW QUARTERS. Advertising Agency, Forced to Enlarge, Equips Up-to-Date, Commodious

Offices in Minot Building. In keeping with the pace that has been set by Hoston's leading commercial houses and industries for the great business advance which is predicted by experts in the various lines for the year 1913, the Wood, Putnam & Wood, company advertising agents has dicted by experts in the various lines for the year 1913, the Wood, Putnam & Wood company, advertising agents, has removed to new and larger offices on the ninth floor of the new Minot building at 111 Devonshire street.

The old offices of the company, which have been outgrown, were at 161 Devonshire street, and in growing to its present position the Wood, Putnam & Wood company has added many service departments, until it is one of the most thoroughly organized and equipped agencies in the country. It has now the advantage also of offices specially designed and equipped to enable all the departments of the organization to work together with greatest efficiency and convenience.

Beginning when the ninth floor of this new building was still one large open space, "ans were specially drawn for the Wood, Putnam & Wood offices. Then an expert was called in to plan furniture and office equipment that would serve the needs of the offices most efficiently. All furniture, counters, cases for filing, etc., throughout the entire offices were designed and made to order.

The result of this planning gives the Wood Putnam & Wood company offices which are efficient as well as handsome, and an impression of spaciousness and roominess—while practically every foot of space is utilized in the most economical manner.

From the entrance to the offices there is a wide vista that includes the large main business offices, and the offices of the executive heads of the company at either end, inclosed by glass and mahogany partitions. The offices are especially well favored in the matter of light, being on the ninth floor with low adjoining buildings.

In its new offices and physical equipment are typified the progressiveness and thoroughness which have distinguished the Wood, Putnam & Wood company.

Founded in 1904 by Allen H. Wood, who has been president since the incorporation of the company two years ago, the late John Wood, his brother, and Marion V. Putnam treasurer, the agency has grown rapidly and constantly.

Most of its business is conducted on a national scale with advertising placed in newspapers, magazines and billboards throughout the United States and Canada, and even in foreign countries.

The service given its clients by the agency includes not only the prepara-tion and placing of advertisements, but the planning of merchandising and selling campaigns, designing trade-marks and seeing that they are prop-erly registered, making trade investigations, determining markets, prepar-ing package designs, booklets, cata-logues, poster and car card designs,

In fact, the Wood, Putnam & Wood company has gathered together a complete organization of men who have specialized knowledge and experience in these lines as well as in advertising. Its large force of outside representatives are men of experience who give to their clients individual attention, backed by the service of the organization as a whole.

Its merchandising, plans and copy, rate and estimate and other departments are in charge of men who have demonstrated special ability in these divisions.

It is to enable all these different units of the organization to work together in the best manner that the new offices have been designed and equipped with such care.

Furthermore, the growth and expansion of the agency, which made this removal and new equipment necessary, are significant not only of the service given but of the fact that a majority of large New England advertisers prefer to have their business conducted by a New England house, when its equipment and service rank with the best in the country.

BREED THEATER.

The French Spy, Vitagraph Thrilling Three-Reel Feature.

Three-Reel Feature.

Following along the lines of the former successes of the Breed, comes the remarkable Vitagraph story in three reels entitled The French Spy, a thrilling story of the experiences of a young French girl as spy among the belligerent tribes of Araba, Moors and Turks. It is one of the most heroic stories of all history, literature or fiction and shows countless scenes of French troops in deeds of daring and in deadly combat with the allied hosts of Turkey on the plains of Algiere.

General Derimond with his wife and daughter Mathilde are captured by pirates and the wife falls overboard while walking the plank, the daughter becoming dumb at the sight. The general and daughter are sold as slaves to the Moors, Mathilde escaping later and rescuing her father. She marries a French officer later and accompanies him to the front, disguised as a French lancer. The Arab chief is captured by the French and Mathlide enters the enemy's fortress disguised as a harmless Arab boy.

In battle the Arabs take her husband, Colonel Birnell, prisoner. He is placed in the fortress and suffers torture rather than betray the French army, Mathlide, as previously instructed, shoots a flaming arrow high in the air, which is the signal for attack. The French forces burst into the fortress, routing the Arabs with great slaughter, and save Mathlide and her husband.

This is a superb picture scenically her husband.

This is a superb picture scenically and one that calls for all the histrionic ability of the great Vitagraph cast. The leading parts are placed with excellent judgment and show Miss Edith Story, the wonderful exponent of expert horsemanship, as the

THE AUDITORIUM

Offers Three Good Acts and Special Picture Programme.

While there is no special headliner on the Auditorium programme, the three acts are so evenly balanced today that it is hard to pick the best. Davett and Duval have one funny act; it is a sketch; it is different from any sketch that has played here this season. The sketch; it is different from any sketch that has played here this season. The plot hinges on a disgusted actor who has gone broke trying to break into vaudeville, and his wife, who is holding out. Ilving on hope. The title of the sketch is Holding Out, but there will be no holding out on laughs when this act is on. Fred and Annie Pelot, the juggling jokers, have an act that combines skilful juggling and bright comedy. They are jugglers with an unusual lot of talent and their ability in spring jokes in the most difficult part of their tricks makes their offering all the more interesting. Mr. Pelot will also demonstrate the art of pitching a ball, and if you want to know how to throw any particular kind of curve, just ask Fred Pelot. Coffman & Carroll, the mulatto and the coon, have an act that consists of some singing, some dancing and much comedy. These clever neople are not colored follys but are such letter delice. cdy. These clever people are not col-ored folks, but are such clever delin-eators of the colored race that the deception is almost perfect.

DAVIS THEATER. Neil O'Brien's Minstrels.

The programme presented by Neil O'Brien and his creat minstrels, which will be the distinguished attraction at the Davis theater Friday evening, Jan. will be the distinguished attraction at the Davis theater Friday evening, Jan. 17, is said to consist of much novelty, great fun and all new and tuneful musical numbers, many of the latter having been composed expressly for this organization by some of America's best known song writers, From a vo-cal standpoint no minstrel entertain-ment ever presented offers a more at-tractive array of singers. The vocal ment ever presented offers a more attractive array of singers. The vocal corps is headed by the famous lyric baritone of international reputation, william H. Thompson, said to be the highest salaried vocal artist on the minstrel stage. Other song stars of note secured by Manager Oscar Hodge are Al Fontaine, the renowned basso; Jack McShane, the grand opera tenor; William H. Hallett, a very popular baritone; George Hagen, the church choir boy soprano, and Charles E. Wheeler. The above soloists are supported by a singing ensemble numerwheeler. The above soloisis are si-ported by a singing ensemble num leally strong and rich in voices.

POETRY

BONG OF SONGS. Over the roar of the cities.
Over the hush of the hills,
Is heard a song that never ste
A voice that never stills.

Epic-loud as the sea is, Lyric-low as the dew. It sings and sings a soul into things And builds the world anew. Dauntiess, deathless, stern but kind Bold and free and strong, It sweeps with mastery man's mind, And rolls the world along.

New eyes, new thoughts, that shall go Seeing as Beauty sings,
Until the light of the farthest dawn
Shall fold its rainbow wings.

-- Madison Cawein, in the Book News
Monthly.

A CYCLE.

Old men weave memories sitting in the Of a world grown vain, whose one-time vaunted scars
The soft moss covers, and whose rare
bazars
That sold them Truth—new, wayward chafferers shun
For strange and implous markets, One by one,
Dimmed by an alien flame, the unwinking stars
That cheered their vigils fade, "ill
Death unbars
To their bruised eyes his kind pavilion.

O glory of the young day's harbinger!
Yet, lest our kindling pride too
madly burn,
And histy boast our stoklier deeds Mark we the portent, and forbode th When dezed and blind we likewise, in Old men, weave memories sitting in the sun.

—Philip J. Pischen.

My Soul goes clad in gorgeous things, Scarlet and gold and blue; And at her shoulders sudden wings Like long flames floker through.

And she is swallow-fiebt, and free From mortal bonds and bars; She laughs, because Eiternity Blossoms for her with stars! Oh, folk, who scorn my stiff gray gown, My dull and foolish face— Can ye not see my Soul fash down, A singing flame in space?

And, folk whose earth-stained looks I hate.
Why may I not divine
Your Souls, that must be passionate,
Shining and swift, as mine?
—Fannie Stearns Davis, in January Atlantic.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

He-Do you believe in kissing? She-I don't approve of kissing chil-lren-Jack o' Lantern. "But, Michael, what are you doing in those large shoes?"
"Growing into them, teacher."—Meg-gendorfer Blaetter.

"The hired man fell off the fence down in the meadow just now." "Had he hit the ground when you left?"—Louisville Courier-Journal. "Has Agnes schieved popularity in her suburban home"
"Yes; sho keeps her doors wide open and her mouth tight shut."—Life.

Ted-If you make love to that girl, brother,
Ned—If there's, any trouble, it's more likely to be caused by her little brother,
—Judge.

"What's Mrs. Wombat abusing the government for now?"
"Seems they wouldn't let her send a gallon of ice cream by parcel post."
—Pittsburgh Post. She-You know my dear Juliusdidn't you?
She—Oh, how silly of me! I thought this was Wednesday!—Punch Bowi.

"Say, Bill, wot's a pedigree?"
"Same as hydrophoby, I guess."
"Hydrophoby, nothin'! You're way "Well, it's sometin dogs have, eny-way."—Boston Transcript.

"What are you thinking about, dar-"Nothing."
"So was L It's wonderful the sympathy between two loving hearts."
Filegende Blaetter,

"I don't understand why my watch will not go," said Staylate, "I'm sure it's wound up!"
"Dear me," yawned his hostess, look-ing toward the clock, "what an odd coincidence!"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch. coincidence!"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Mrs. Yeaste—I see it is said that throughout her wedding day the Korean bride is bound to remain mute.
Mr. Yeast—No wonder the Korean bridegroom looks upon his wedding day as one of the happiest in his life.
—Yonkers' Statesman.

"What are you worried about?"
"I am not worried," answered Mr.
Meekton, "only puzzled. What I can't understand is why a woman will march four miles in a suffragette parade and require a taxicab to travel four blocks
on a shopping trip."—Washington Star. "I hope you are following my in-structions carefully, Sandy—the pills three times a day, and a drop of whisky at bedtime."

"Weel, sir, I may be a wee bit behind wi' the pills, but I'm about six weeks in front wi' the whisky."—The Tatler.

THE KALEIDOSCOPE

The Hawalian Promotion commit-tee of Honolulu has arranged to ex-hibit at the Auckland (New Zealand) Agricultural and Mineral exhibit, which opens in December, 1913, and continues Argentine is one of the great present and prospective agricultural demains of the world, extending across more than 2,000 miles of latitude and being nearly one-third as large as the United States.

The three big American electrical corporations, according to a trade journal, employ nearly $6,000 persons, and have a weekly pay roll of nearly $1,300,000 at present—the highest figure ever attained so far. The only deposits of magnesite in the United States which have been commercially utilized are those situated in the valley and coast counties of California. The total production reported in 1911 was 9,375 tons of crude magnesite, valued at $75,000, estimating the average value of the ore at $8 a ton.

Two Japanese experts have invented a new process for manufacturing briquets, cylindrical in form, of Fushun coke dust, for use in Japanese braziers, heating stoves and gas engines. This new process follows the Armstrong mortar system. The new article of fuel is called Fukuzumi and is being manufactured in Darien (Dainy).

Col. W. C. Gorgas, Major Robert E. Noble, Mr. Joseph A. Le Prince, Dr. A. E. Mayner and Mr. Joseph McGuigan have left for Guayaquil, where they will make a preliminary estimate of the amount of work and money required to place that city in sanitary condition. The estimate is made at the request of the government of Ecmador, with the object of having the port in sanitary condition by the time the Panamu canal is opened to commerce.
